Participant Guide

This guide is for people going on a trip. The first part walks through the steps: your profile and documents, applying, following your next steps, paying your trip costs, and your flights. The Screen reference then describes every screen you use, field by field.

The big picture

1. Complete your profile. Your profile holds your personal, contact, emergency contact, church, and health information. It's shared by every trip you apply for.
2. Apply for a trip. Choose your trip role and answer the application questions.
3. Submit. When your profile and application are complete, submitting makes your application Pre-Approved. That holds your place on the team.
4. Upload your documents. Add the documents your trip role and the trip need (for example a nursing license or a passport) to your profile. They're due 90 days before the trip starts.
5. Get approved. Trip staff review your documents and approve your application.
6. Pay and prepare. Make your deposit, raise or donate the rest. Staff enter your flights.

Home's My Trips cards always show your next step for each trip.

Your profile

Open Profile from the menu bar (or Edit profile in the user menu). Every field is described in Edit profile.

What a complete profile needs

You can't submit an application until your profile is complete. A complete profile has:

- First name, middle name, last name, and email
- Address line 1, city, state/province, postal code, and country
- Phone country code and phone number
- Birthdate and gender
- Emergency contact name, country code, phone number, and relationship
- Current church home, with its city and state/province
- An allergies description, if you answer Yes to Have allergies?
- At least one medical condition from your organization's list, if you answer Yes to Take medication?
- At least one complete language row (language, fluency, and medical terminology), if you answer Yes to Do you speak a language other than English?

Preferred name, Address line 2, Bio, and the profile photo are optional.

While anything is missing, the top of the profile shows a Missing: list. It shrinks as you fill things in and disappears when the profile is complete.

Once you're on a trip

While you have a Pre-Approved or Approved application on a trip that hasn't ended, your profile must stay complete. You can still change anything, but a save that would leave a required item empty is refused with "This profile is on an active trip and can't be saved with missing information." and a list of what's missing. Fill those in and save again. The same applies when staff edit your profile.

Your documents

Documents live on your profile, in the Documents section, so one passport or license works for every trip.

Adding a document

1. In your profile, choose Add Document.
2. Pick the Document type. Some types show instructions at the top of the dialog.
3. Fill in Country issued, Issue date, Expiration date (if the type has one), and Document number (if the type asks for one).
4. Attach the file: a photo or PDF. iPhone photos (HEIC) are converted automatically.
5. If the type has specializations (for example a board certification in Pediatrics), choose Add specialization for each one and give it a date and its own file.
6. Choose Save.

Files are stored encrypted. Only you and the trip staff who manage you can view them.

What your trips need

When you have an application on an upcoming trip, the Documents section lists each trip with its due date (90 days before it starts) and the documents it needs. Each is marked Uploaded or Missing, and a missing one explains what to fix, for example "add an expiration date after 03/10/2027" or "select the Pediatrics specialization".

A trip can need:

- the documents your trip role requires (for example a Nurse needs a nursing license), including any required specializations;
- a Passport, if the trip requires one;
- a Doctor Permission document, if you're pregnant and the organization requires one.

Expiration dates

A document has to be good for the trip, not just for today. Depending on its type, it must expire after the trip ends, on or after the trip ends, or 90 or 180 days after the trip ends. A passport that's valid today can still be too close to expiring for a trip next year. The trip's document list tells you when that happens.

In the document table, a red Expired tag shows on any document from its expiration date on, including the day it expires. Expired documents stay on your profile, and keep the tag after you add a newer one of the same type, so when you apply for a later trip you can see what needs replacing.

If you have several documents of the same type (say, an old and a new passport), each trip uses the one that expires last.

Reviewed documents

Trip staff check each document and mark it Reviewed. You'll see a read-only Reviewed checkbox in your document list. A reviewed document can't be edited, replaced, or deleted, because staff have already checked it. If it needs to change, add a new document, or ask your trip staff.

If staff ask you to upload a document again, you'll get an email, and the document shows "Reload requested" with the date until you upload a new file.

Applying for a trip

Finding a trip

Home's Trips you can apply for lists open trips with how many positions are available. You can also start from your organization's public trip page and choose Apply.

- Apply shows when the trip has open spots.
- Apply for Reserved shows when staff reserved a spot for you by email and the open spots are gone.

- If there's no spot for you, you'll see "Thanks for your interest, but there are no spots available on this trip." or "Thanks for your interest, but all remaining spots on this trip are reserved."

The application

The application asks for your trip role, funding (with an optional Why go story for your fundraising page), roommate preference, flight purchase choice, trip options, pregnancy (female applicants), and agreements. Every field is described in Apply for trip / Update application.

Your health and language answers come from your profile and show on the application as text. Change them in your profile, not on the application.

Saving and submitting

- Save Incomplete Application saves your answers while something is still missing. The application stays Incomplete. It does not hold a role spot. A warning above the button says "Saving an Incomplete application does not secure your role on the trip. Complete the application and required profile fields to be able to submit the application which will secure the role." Clicking the button asks you to confirm with OK: "Your application data will be saved, but a role on the trip has not yet been secured." OK saves and closes the application. On the application page, OK saves and returns to Home.
- Submit Application appears when your profile and application are complete. A notice above the button says "Submitting the application will hold your role on the trip pending review of your documents once they are uploaded." Submitting makes it Pre-Approved and holds a role spot.
- Update Application saves changes to a Pre-Approved application. While the trip hasn't ended, it stays disabled until everything required is filled in, and a list shows what's missing.

Documents never block submitting. They're needed before approval.

When you reopen a saved application, a list shows anything still needed to submit. If your profile is incomplete, a warning names the missing fields and offers Update profile.

After approval

Once your application is Approved, you can't edit it yourself, except Why go: change the story and choose Save Why go to update your fundraising page. If something else on it needs to change, contact your trip staff. They can move it back to Pre-Approved so you can edit it, then approve it again. You can still update your profile, as long as required fields stay filled in.

Cancelling

Use Cancel App (from Home or the application) and confirm. A cancelled application stays on your list with Uncancel. Uncancelling brings it back as Incomplete or Pre-Approved, never straight to Approved, and only if your role still has a spot (or it was reserved for you).

Your next steps

Home's My Trips shows each upcoming trip with your next step, color-coded: yellow when you need to act, orange while you're waiting on staff, and green when you're all set. The full list of messages and their buttons is in Next steps.

Paying for your trip

- Your total trip cost is the trip cost (adjusted by your trip options), plus your flight if the organization buys it, plus any add-on expenses staff add.
- Your balance is the total trip cost minus donations, never below $0.
- The deposit is the first amount the organization asks you to raise.
- On My Trip, Make Donation lets you pay toward your own balance. View donations lists what's been given.

- On Home, Donate in your next steps lets you give to yourself or a teammate.
- Friends and family can give through your fundraising page without an account.

Online donations are paid through Stripe, by credit card or bank account (ACH). Pay with Stripe takes you to Stripe's secure payment page; after paying you come back to a thank-you page. A card payment counts toward your balance right away. A bank payment shows as Processing for up to 4 business days and counts only once it Succeeded; a Failed payment never counts. If your organization hasn't connected Stripe, donation screens show "Online donations aren't set up for this organization yet." and you can't pay online.

Your flights

- Staff enter your flights. You'll see them under Flights on My Trip.
- Your planned arrival and departure dates are the trip dates, moved by any trip options with days before or after the trip. If your flights don't match, your next steps tell you.

Emails you'll get

The organization can email you when your application is started, submitted, or approved; when a donation comes in, your deposit is reached, or you're fully paid; when staff ask you to upload a document again; and with reminders (incomplete application, missing documents, deposit or payment due, before the trip, trip arrival information). Trip staff can also email the team. Emails come from "sender via Mission Trips", and replies go to the organization or trip leader.

Screen reference

Home (Dashboard)

Home greets you with "Welcome, first name!". If your profile is missing anything, a warning says "Please update your profile to continue." It lists the missing items under Missing: and has an Update profile button.

Apply for trip / Update application

The dialog is titled Apply for trip for a new application, and Update application once you've saved one. It doesn't close if you click outside it. It shows the organization, the trip card, and then the sections below in order.

Trip role

Field	Choices	Notes
Trip role	The trip's roles with open spots, each shown as "Role (N available)"	Required. Only roles with open positions are listed. If staff reserved a role for you, it's chosen for you and locked ("This role is reserved for you."). When updating, your current role is always listed.

If no role has an open spot you'll see "There are no trip roles with available positions right now."

Profile and health

If your profile is incomplete, a warning says "Your profile needs to be completed before this application can be submitted." with the missing items and an Update profile button. Otherwise a note reminds you that your contact and health details come from your profile, with Update profile.

Health information and Language show your profile answers as text: Have allergies?, Allergies description, Take medication?, Medical conditions, Do you speak a language other than English?, and each language with its fluency and medical terminology answer. Change them in your profile.

Tick at least one of I will self-fund and I will raise funds. You can tick both.

- New trip price: the base cost plus your choices.

Only one option you choose can move your arrival date (days before the trip), and only one can move your departure date (days after). If you pick two, you'll see "Choose only one trip option with days before the trip." (or "...after the trip.").

If there are no options, the section says "This trip has no travel options configured."

The questions scroll. The box above, and the warning or notice, stay with the buttons. Save Incomplete Application shows "Saving an Incomplete application does not secure your role on the trip. - Arrival Flight — the flights that take you to the trip. Add Segment adds one leg.
- Return Flight — the flights home. Add Segment adds one leg.

Each segment ("Arrival segment 1", and so on) has:

A blank search says "Enter a donor name or email to look up." Fewer than two letters says "Enter at least two letters of the name, or an email." The page does not show the donor's email, street address, or phone. Pay with Stripe records the gift on the donor you chose.
Your first name	Required.
Your last name	Optional.
Email	Required; Stripe sends the receipt here.
Amount	Required, at least $0.50.

If the organization hasn't connected Stripe, the form shows "Online donations aren't set up for this organization yet." instead of Payment method and Pay with Stripe. Below the form, Visit a trip participants page links to each person's page.
